

Pamela mixes content with humor and shows an understanding of the audience member's specific needs. Her training was well worth the time and money.

—MH, Precision Interconnect

Pamela Ziemann playfully dared me to show up and express my truest values. I feel more powerful because of it. The way my audience viewed me and how I related to them was a moment of transformation.

—JH, Graphic Designer

I would not hesitate in recommending Pamela for any speaking/training/motivational role. Her naturally enthusiastic manner and ability to listen sincerely would be an invaluable asset for any company's success.

—GC, Program Manager, Australia

Incorporating and insightful, Pamela has the ability to keep your interest by using short exercises and examples.

—JW, Qwest Communications

She has an engaging delivery style and clearly did her research on our particular company needs... We felt the investment we made for our employees was beneficial.

—CH, Human Resources, The Boeing Company

Pamela's clients learn, sometimes for the first time, the significance of their message and then deliver it in such a way that their customers naturally embrace it and take action. Drawing from her extensive experience as a Communication Skills Trainer, she has developed a unique set of tools to employ for each situation. As a member of the National Speakers Association, she was mentored by three of the top presentation skills coaches in North America. Her articles on speaking and human potential have been published in 5 languages. Overcoming her own speech difficulties, she has compassion for those she works with and a passion for seeing people show up, connect and give inspiring presentations.
